STAUNTON. [Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.]

MAY 16, 1878. Last night the store and stock of Mr. C. T. Palmer, a well-known merchant at Arbor Hill, six miles from Staunton, were burned. The fire caught from a stove, and the building was so far gone before it was discovered of Philadelphia.

The Cabells, Mayos, and Carringtons. IN VIRGINIA AND ENGLAND.

Editors of the Dispatch: The following interesting notes upon some of the most distinguished among the representative families of the Old Dominion have been transmitted to me by my friend, Mr. Alexander Brown, Norwood, Nelson gies of the same, now abundantly intermingled by successive marriages.

Towards the due completion of his object, he solicits correspondence with those interested. R. A. B. RICHMOND, VA., May 13, 1878.

County Wilts, was the headquarters of the Cabell family. The church contains a chapel founded for the repose of the soul of John Cabell, 1577. Their arms are still painted | Fifty GOLD-FISH, to be sold at 99c. a pair, or a on the window."

Dr. William, the son of Nicholas and Rachel (Hooper) Cabell, the founder of the family in Virginia, was born March 9, 1687, at "Bagley," near Warminster, Wiltshire, England. He was the grandson of William Cabell, of Warminster, who died in 1704. There are many traditions regarding his early life transmitted to his descendants. He is believed to have served as a surgeon in the British navy. Resigning his commission, he emigrated to Virginia about the year 1623. Whither about the same time, from the Island of Barbadoes, came also the brothers Joseph and William Mayo, his cousins, their mother and his being sisters. Pursuing his profession of land-surveyor, he soon acquired by grant extensive landed possessions, (1) which he successfully cultivated, becoming speedily a man of importance and influence in the Colony.

The brothers Mayo had married in Barbadoes, and were men of families, Joseph having married in 1716 Ann, daughter of Dr. Paul and Heningham (Codrington) Carrington, of St. Philip's parish, and William, Frances, daughter of Thomas Gold, of Bridgetown, sometime prior to 1711.

These lands extended up the James river beyond the present line between Amberstand Nelson counent line between Amberstand Nelson counties. In the same year he visited England, appointing his "loving wife, Elizabeth," and his "loving friends, William Mayo and George Carrington," his "lawful attorneys of DR. (1) There are of record in the State Land Registry Office grants of land to the extent of 7,120 acres to William Cabell, between the years 1735 and to William Cabell, between the years 1735 and 1738.

(2) Powhatan, on James river, just below Richmond and near the terminus of the Chesapeake and Ohio ratiroad, was the seat of Joseph Mayo. He and three of his children lie buried in the family grounds here beneath perfectly preserved slabs of a kind of brownish colored state, commonly called iron-stone, elaborately graven with the family arms, from which we learn that he was born in "Sumersetshire, March 25, 1693, and died March 25, 1740." Joseph Mayo was modest seemingly in his desires, contenting himself with grants of 1,000 acres of land only, whilst his brother William appears to have secured nearly 25,000 acres. A William Mayo was seated in Virginia as early as 1693, and Valentine Mayo but a little later.
